MICHAEL D. WINTER

---

Hello,

I spent 7 years working as a Photojournalist for the United States Navy. I have extensive photo lab/photojournalism experience ranging from operating various input/output platforms including darkroom film processing/printing, large format digital printing, matting/mounting, scanning, as well as providing media coverage for high profile events using still and video imagery.

I want to join your TEAM!

My tenure in the Navy gave me the attitude AND aptitude to learn fast, think quick, and act smart. I started using Adobe Photoshop in 1999 and have an advanced knowledge and skill set in digital darkroom techniques. This is the result of having attended many Adobe Symposiums throughout the years, thanks to the Navy.

As a veteran of the United States Navy, specifically a Navy Photojournalist, I believe I have many traits that would transfer well into this job position. Having served 7 years active duty with an Honorable Discharge I have a proven track record of successfully working with people from all types of socioeconomic and cultural backgrounds. Also, as a military photographer a large part of my job was to work with high ranking Officers in highly visible environments, not limited to Change of Command ceremonies, Distinguished Visitor meetings/visits, and even celebrity events. These situations equipped me with the tools necessary to become a true professional with superb customer service skills.

My professionalism is top notch and my ability to work in a TEAM setting is proven. I know my background as a Navy Photojournalist would be invaluable to your company... Let's talk!

Very respectfully,

Michael D. Winter
